

PROS EXPORTING INFORMATION

1. Overview

Software and related services and technologies offered by PROS are subject to U.S. export rules known as the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) and enforced by the U.S. Department of Commerce Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS). More information on BIS' controls can be found here: <https://www.bis.doc.gov/>.

Additionally, the Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) of the U.S. Department of the Treasury administers and enforces economic sanctions against certain countries and regimes, terrorists, and other threats to U.S. national security, foreign policy or economic interests. The following is a link to OFAC's website: <https://ofac.treasury.gov/>.

Other U.S. federal departments and foreign national governments also regulate and control exports of products, technologies, and services.

It is PROS' policy to comply with the EAR and other export control and sanctions laws applicable to it and its products, services, and technologies. PROS provides product export control classification numbers (ECCNs) on this web page in furtherance of such policy and to assist our customers in complying with U.S. export control and sanctions laws.
